

More information about our new rector: Looking forward to her first Sunday on January 6, 2019

Rev'd Tambria (Tammy) Lee

Rev'd Lee grew up on a small island in North Florida, was very involved with the Episcopal Church and active from the 8th grade on. She went to Florida State (FSU) where she graduated with a BA in Arts, Religion and English. She earned her Master of Divinity at Yale Divinity School and furthered her studies with a Certificate of Anglican Studies at Berkeley Divinity School. Only her dissertation remains for completion of a Doctor of Ministry from Seabury-Western Theological Seminary in Chicago, IL. In North Carolina she chairs the Clergy Wellness Committee and is on the Disciplinary Board.

Rev'd Lee has also had training in Family Systems, Crisis Management, Restorative Practices, and Conflict Management in the Parish. On a more personal note she loves to preach, considers the BCP a wonderful and rich resource where she is always looking for ways to mine it for satisfying and rich worship. Her general practice is to use the Daily Offices, Rites I and Rite II, the Eucharistic prayers and the Book of Occasional Services. She is a hands-on individual regarding Pastoral Care and like most Southerners shows up when visiting someone with something in her hand such as soup, bread, etc.

Rev'd Lee and her husband David Exum Brown love the coast, boating, walking on the beach, and are nature lovers. They are the proud parents of a golden retriever, Noah and two cockatiels, Gracie and Squeaker.
